Norwegian Chief Commercial Officer Thomas Ramdahl said: “With our St Patrick’s Day sale passengers won’t need the ‘luck of the Irish’ to bag a bargain flight to the USA. With further savings on 16 transatlantic routes from the UK and Ireland, Norwegian are continuing to make US travel even more affordable for thousands of British and Irish passengers.”

Norwegian offers low-cost flights to a range of US cities from London Gatwick using brand new Dreamliner aircraft. The airline’s low-cost long-haul network from Gatwick has grown significantly in recent years, with increased flights and more routes added - this summer, Norwegian’s flights from Gatwick to the USA will increase by more than 50%.

Building on the success of the Gatwick-US flights, last month Norwegian announced a huge expansion to its transatlantic plans with the launch of 10 new routes from Edinburgh, Belfast, Cork, Shannon and Dublin. The new flights will serve smaller airports on the US east coast which offer good access into the New York, Boston and New England areas but carry significantly lower landing charges, allowing Norwegian to offer some truly affordable fares.

The transatlantic routes from Edinburgh, Belfast, Cork, Shannon and Dublin will be operated on brand new Boeing 737 MAX aircraft - Norwegian is the European launch customer for this state-of-the-art new aircraft which offers a longer range than existing single-aisle aircraft. Passengers will be able to travel in a fresh and modern single-class economy cabin.

Norwegian is Europe’s third largest low-cost carrier, carrying 30 million yearly passengers to more than 140 global destinations. Norwegian has been voted the Best Low-Cost Long-Haul Airline for two consecutive years at the renowned SkyTrax Awards, and the Europe’s Best Low-Cost Airline for four consecutive years.
